

The PEAK Tail Blend provides inversely-correlated optionality return profiles that will yield extreme outsized returns in market calamity. While it helps to hedge our base portfolios during times of extreme market meltdowns, its asymmetric return profile would vastly out-produce those drawdowns and provide overall outsized gains to the fund. Running concurrently with our income trades are three diverse hedging campaigns, we call these 'BSH Factories'. Similar to our core trades, these factories provide diversification to each other. It is impossible to predict which hedges will activate most powerfully during a crash, so we spread our hedges across varying strikes, expirations, and we are continuously harvesting and adding weekly tranches in our factory campaign. The three factories are employed as redundancy insurance toward our income strategies, but in reality they potentially produce lotto-like returns in a market crash. This is our Tail Blend.
